

Canfield Explains Proposed Changes to Police-Fire Funds

Palmer Canfield Tells Workings of Proposed Changes for Police and Firemen Pension Funds—Believes There Will Be No Additional Taxes.

September 19th, 1933
Editor Freeman:

A number of taxpayers have asked my views about the proposed changes to the police and the fire pension funds. These changes were not drafted by me. The fire pension fund was created by amendments to the charter in 1915 and 1919 which were drawn by me. The police pension fund was started in 1910 but the charter provisions were materially changed by amendments drafted by me in 1919.

The fire pension fund is made up of fines and donations and one-half of rewards, and $1,000 transferred to it each year by the board of fire commissioners, and two per cent of the salaries of the members of the paid fire force deducted monthly from their pay. The police pension fund consists of fines and donations, and one-half of rewards, and lost or stolen moneys unclaimed, and dog taxes or license fees, and the two per cent of the salaries of all the members of the police force.

Every adult citizen of the city has the inherent right and privilege to decide whether he or she favors any proposed changes to the charter, but such citizen should understand what changes are intended. None of the articles I have seen in the local papers correctly stated what changes are proposed. Leaving out details I shall endeavor to set forth the amendments contemplated covering both the police and the fire pension funds.

The first change provides that when the fund amounts to $50,000, no further tax moneys shall be appropriated and transferred to it until it becomes less than that amount. The second change refers to retirement from active service. The charter now provides that a member over 60 years of age may be retired and receive an annual pension of not less than one-half of his salary when retired. The amendment would also provide that a member retiring after 25 years of active service, if he is over 55 years of age, shall receive an annual pension of one-half of his salary when retired.

The third change, which seems to be a source of controversy, provides that upon the death of a member from natural causes, the widow and dependents shall receive an award equal to one month's salary for service not exceeding 12, of active service of the deceased member. This sum, as stated, cannot exceed one year's salary of the deceased member and is to be paid at the rate of $100 per month to the family. At the present time the family of a member dying of natural causes does not receive anything notwithstanding the member had contributed two per cent of his salary each month during his service. Take, as an example, the case of Police Officer Charles Murphy, who died about a year ago, leaving a large family. He had served faithfully and loyally for over 18 years. During all that time he made his two per cent contribution each month to the fund. When he died his family received nothing from the fund. I cannot see how there can be any objection to such an award under such circumstances.

The fourth main change has reference to a member killed while in the actual discharge of his duties or dying from the effects of injuries received while in the performance of his duties. At the present time the widow would receive $500 and a pension of 30 per cent of his salary plus 10 per cent for each child under 18 not exceeding 70 per cent in all. Under the proposed change the widow would not receive the $500, but would receive the full pension the first year and 50 per cent thereafter. At the present time if no widow survives but there are dependent children under 18, an award is made for each of said children of 15 per cent not exceeding a total of 70 per cent. Under the amendment the award would be $40 per month for the first dependent child and $30 for each of others, not exceeding 50 per cent of father's salary at the time of his death. There is also a somewhat similar change as to payments to dependent parents where there is no widow or dependent children.

There is also a change providing that when a member is retired because of a disability incurred while in the service, he shall be entitled during such disability, to the professional services of the police or the fire surgeon and such hospital care as shall be required to treat him for such injury or disability. This change does not provide general free medical service to active or retired members of the police and the fire forces, and such members do not receive free medical services now although one of the articles in a local paper so stated.

I cannot see by any mathematical and mortality figures that these changes would add anything to the tax budget. Both the police and the fire pension funds have been increasing year by year. The police pension fund was about $30,000 at the beginning of this year and the income was nearly $2,000 more than the payments. The fire pension fund was over $25,000 the first of this year and the income was more than $2,500 above the expenditures. An insurance actuary could calculate the death risk of the members from natural sources. Tables of mortality have been prepared which exhibit

7 Men Arrested On Charges of Vagrancy

Motorcycle Officer Reilly of the Saugerties road patrol placed seven men under arrest Monday on charges of vagrancy. The State Trooper found the men near the Albany avenue crossing on the West Shore property. Booked at the county jail the men gave their names as follows:

John Benton, 52, of New York; Joseph Hoey, 50, of Boston; John B. Adams, 27, of Seely, Pa.; Mike Puchter, 47, of Albany; Thomas Helick, 31, of Albany; William Healey, 51, of Cincinnati and James Cawthorne, 27, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

When the men were searched a kit of so-called burglar tools was found on Cawthorne. In the kit were several skeleton keys, a pair of canvas gloves, a homemade saw, evidently recently used, a steel jimmy, and a small chisel. A check-up will be made on Cawthorne to determine whether he has a past record. All of the men will be arraigned later before Justice of the Peace Webber of the town of Ulster.

Judge Says Detroit Banks Were Solvent

Detroit, Sept. 19 (AP).—Efforts to reorganize Detroit's two closed national banks were being made today following a grand jury report which said the banks were solvent when closed and no evidence had been found of criminality on the part of officers.

Judge Harry B. Keidan, who as a one-man grand jury conducted a three-months investigation into the causes for closing the two banks, unexpectedly terminated his inquiry last night and made public his findings. He cited no specific reason for the closing of the city's principal financial institutions, declaring his belief that they were solvent on the last day they operated, and asserting that there was no evidence of criminality on the part of their officers and directors.

He urged the federal government to "undertake to help the depositors of these closed institutions and the city of Detroit," adding that "criminations and recriminations are futile. Only the actual aid of the government will suffice to remedy the evil conditions which exist."

Of the several scores of witnesses, one, a banker, who had testified since the inquiry was begun on June 14, Senator James Couzens (R-Mich.) and the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin were among the few who did not blame the treasury department for the debacle and who did not contend the banks were solvent on February 11, the last business day before the Michigan banking holiday.

Senator Couzens charged that an "orgy of consolidations and pyramiding of assets" caused the collapse of the banks, while the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin accused the Detroit Bankers Co., holding company for the First National, of "looting widows and orphans" through borrowings for affiliates on inadequate collateral. He also charged officials in the Detroit bankers group with publishing false financial reports.

Commission Action Dismissed in Court

Monday afternoon in county court an action on contract, Irene Bassett against Michael Kemler and Lena Kemler, to recover commission for real estate sale, was taken up for trial before a jury. At the conclusion of plaintiff's case, F. W. Brooks for defendant moved to dismiss the complaint and the motion was granted. Augustus Shufeldt appeared for plaintiff. Court then recessed until 10 o'clock this morning. At the opening of court Judge Traver attempted to make up a day calendar and locate some case which was ready for trial. He failed to find any lawyer who was ready to try a case and the jury was excused until 2 o'clock this afternoon, when another attempt to get some case on trial was scheduled.

One case, No. 18, George E. Rhymer against Louis Basch, an assault action, was announced as settled. Palmer Canfield for plaintiff and Arthur B. Ewig for defendant.

2 Criminal Cases In County Court Monday

Two criminal matters were brought to the attention of Judge Traver in county court Monday afternoon by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. The matter of Raymond Shar, charged with violation of the workmen's compensation act, was adjourned until the November term of county court at the request of Lloyd R. LeFever, attorney for Shar. Shar has paid $100 and asked for two weeks more time to pay the balance as directed by the court. The court directed that Shar pay the balance of the amount due within two weeks or appear at the November term.

Bernard McDonald, directed by the court to pay a specified sum to his wife for support, did not appear in court as required but he had paid $24 to Abram Molyneux, deputy parole officer, earlier in the day. The matter was held open.

More Developments In Slot Machine Cases At Ellenville Monday

Lidore Levy Arrested, Alleged He Was In Charge of Property Where Slot Machines Were Taken—Hearing Set For October 5.

There were additional developments Monday in the Ellenville slot machine matter which started a week ago when Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneux and Charles McCullough, acting under the orders of District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, seized seven slot machines in a barn on the premises alleged to be owned by Mrs. Guslie Rand at Oak Ridge, near Ellenville. The seven machines valued at $100 each were seized by the officers in a barn on the premises last Thursday when the officers, accompanied by Mayor Floyd Ackery of Ellenville, visited the premises. At that time Mrs. Rand was taken before Justice of the Peace M. D. Schoonmaker and paroled for a hearing Monday. The machines were placed in the Ellenville lock-up for safe keeping.

Monday Deputy Sheriff Abram Molyneux arrested Lidore Levy, who it is alleged was in charge of the property, and he was arraigned before the justice in the afternoon and entered a plea of not guilty. He was paroled in the custody of Lefroy Lounsbury until October 5 when a hearing will be had. The same disposition was made of Mrs. Rand's case and she too was paroled in custody of her counsel, Mr. Lounsbury. Assistant District Attorney N. Le Van Haver appeared for The People. District Attorney Cleon B. Murray is still busy before the grand jury which is in attendance at the September term of county court.

Some time ago Special Constable G. R. Van Aken went to Greenfield where he seized two slot machines on order of a local justice. On his return to Ellenville it is charged that three men set upon him and beat him severely and then left him unconscious after taking away the two machines which he had seized. Moe Rand is now out on bail as one of the trio which was implicated in the matter.

EQUITABLE DISABILITY COMPENSATION STUDIED

Chicago, Sept. 19 (AP).—Demands for equitable disability compensation and for action to curb the spread of communism have been drafted for almost certain adoption by the American Legion's 1933 convention.

A four-point program covering compensation and hospitalization for disabled veterans of all wars already has been adopted by half of the legion's state departments. Leaders among the ex-service men's organization consider its adoption a foregone conclusion in the national convention October 2-5, when a quarter million legionnaires are expected to gather in the world's fair city.

So favorable has been the reaction to the program that its author, Ed Hayes of Decatur, Ill., has come to be considered virtually assured of election as national commander. One of the provisions of the four-point program calls for restoration of the 25 per cent reduction in compensation payments made in the economy drive of last March.

The men of the Comforter club will be glad to welcome the members of the other men's clubs of the city and vicinity.

New Government In Cuba Confronted By Incipient Civil War

Captain Blas, Who Conducted Long Guerrilla Warfare Against Machado, Again Takes to the Field—Has 300 Well-Armed Soldiers.

Havana, Sept. 19 (AP).—Confronted by incipient civil war, the new Cuban government today dispatched a train load of troops and students to Camaguey province, where Captain Juan Blas Hernandez, known as the "Cuban Sandino," has taken to the field.

Captain Blas conducted a long guerrilla warfare against deposed President Gerardo Machado. Recently he spent several weeks in Havana conferring with General Carlos Menditea, one of the principal leaders of the opposition to the present government.

The insurgent captain, who got his nickname because he emulated General Augustino Sandino in Nicaragua, left for the interior yesterday and immediately took up arms. Secretary of Interior Gutierrez confirmed the news that Captain Blas had rebelled, but said he had no more than 100 men. However dispatches from Moron in Camaguey province said there were 300 well-armed soldiers following Blas' leadership.

The outbreak came as Provisional President Ramon Grau San Martin was studying demands he resign. The student directorate, the principal supporters of the administration, issued a manifesto saying, "The salvation of the nation depends on the stabilization of the provisional government; a conspiracy against it is to be considered treason to the fatherland and will so be dealt with."

Opening of Bank Awaits Liquidation of Assets

It is fair to all those who are waiting patiently for the opening of the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston to state that it is much more difficult to open a closed bank than to maintain a financial status in a going bank sufficiently good to allow the institution to function.

Once a bank is closed it becomes necessary to liquidate all of its assets which may be in any way doubtful, before permission to open is given by the government. Inasmuch as the government will guarantee after January 1, 1934, all deposits under $2,500 and a proportionate share of larger deposits, no one can blame the banking department for being very conservative. From the stockholders and depositors' standpoint a more careful scrutiny of bank affairs is a constructive action.

From the above statement it will be realized that in order to protect depositors in a closed bank from undue loss, an prudent haste should accompany the sale of assets which are unacceptable to a new bank, which will take over only the ill-edged assets of the closed bank.

The public is familiar with the facts that all loans of the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company which are in any way slow or doubtful are placed in the hands of very competent trustees to be collected for the benefit of depositors who have waived a part of their deposits to take over these loans.

There now remains a quantity of substandard bonds which cannot in fairness be dumped on the market, but are being sold in a careful and orderly manner with a view to conserving the interests of old depositors and also to delay the opening of the National Ulster County Bank of Kingston as little as possible. As hitherto stated no difficulty is anticipated in opening the new bank on or before October 1.

Adams To Conduct Journalism School

Cornell Professor To Hold One Day Session Under Auspices of Ulster County Home Bureau—Freeman Correspondents Urged to Attend.

Prof. Bristow Adams of Cornell University, practical newspaper man of wide experience, will conduct, under the auspices of the Ulster County Home Bureau, another one day "School of Journalism" in Kingston on Tuesday, September 26. The school will open in the supervisors' room in the court house at 10:30, and will be open to all reporters and correspondents. At the noon luncheon there will be a general discussion in which Ulster county editors will be invited to participate.

All Freeman correspondents are invited to attend the school and benefit thereby. Only a few attended a similar school conducted by Prof. Adams here a few years ago and unfortunately those who failed to attend were the ones who most needed good instruction. It is not possible to send out a personal invitation to each correspondent, so it is hoped that this general invitation will be accepted by all Freeman correspondents.

The object of the school is to improve the work of newspaper correspondents and thus, indirectly, to improve the quality of the publicity in Home and Farm Bureau activities, church and lodge work and other community activities. Judging from the results of the previous visit of Prof. Adams, much practical knowledge may be gained in one day of instruction given by a man of his wide practical experience, great ability and knack for imparting instruction.

New Mexico And Idaho Vote On Repeal Today

(By The Associated Press) New Mexico and Idaho were having their say about prohibition today—the former lackadaisically, the latter with a wider display of interest.

Clear skies, beckoning the rural vote to the polls, encouraged the dries in Idaho, home state of that long-time friend of prohibition, Senator Borah. Allied dries predicted a vote of more than 100,000 with "well over 50,000" opposing repeal. William Healy, a repeal candidate, envisioned a 15,000 repeal majority out of a total vote of 75,000.

In New Mexico, foes of prohibition predicted at least a 2 to 1 majority for repeal. The voters, however, displayed much more interest in another matter on the ballot—the question of limiting property tax levies. These two states, the only ones to vote on repeal this week, are the 30th and 31st to ballot on the question. The other 29 all have approved the 18th Amendment from the Constitution.

Repealists hope for final success by Nov. 7, when at least 29 states will have made their decision. Dries are striving to hold their lines. Approval of 26 states is necessary to amend the Constitution.

They shot her when she broke away and ran toward the door.

Believe U. S. Will Maintain Its Naval Building Program

Believe Navy Building Program Will Be Completed Despite England's Suggestions of Reports That Plan Be Abandoned.

Washington, Sept. 19 (AP).—Confident assertions that the United States will maintain intact its $238,000,000 naval building program were heard in naval circles today in reply to reports that Great Britain has suggested abandonment of the plan.

Seeking to reconcile known British views on naval construction with a state department denial that abandonment of the entire 32-ship program had been proposed, naval experts agreed that any British suggestion almost certainly would deal with vessels in the 10,000-ton cruiser category.

Informed officials said that judging by past expressions, if Great Britain had sponsored any message on alteration of the naval building plan, it probably centered on the four 10,000-ton cruisers included. England repeatedly has urged a limitation around the 7,000-ton figure for vessels of this class.

But so positive was the navy of completing the building program made possible by public works funds. It planned to ask congress for a 50 per cent increase in its fighting air strength, or a boost in numbers from 1,000 to 1,500 serviceable airplanes to help equip the additional ships.

Chief of naval operations, Admiral C. D. Wilson, who has been informed by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval aeronautics, that the request will be made next session, King explained more planes are necessary because "our ship building program has gotten so far ahead of our plane strength."

Of the 500 additional planes King wants, 252 would be required by the $238,000,000 program which includes two carriers of 114 plane capacity, each and four 10,000-ton cruisers which carry six planes each.

These 10,000-ton cruisers are of the so-called class B type that carry six-inch guns. Observers here feel that any London suggestion on naval construction would most likely seek a delay in the building of these cruisers with the view of lowering the tonnage limit at the 1935 Geneva conference.

But American naval experts contended during the London treaty negotiations and have maintained consistently since, that the longer cruising radius of the 10,000-ton vessel is necessary to this country's needs. They foresaw today no likelihood of action that would alter this position.

GOVERNOR WILL AID N. Y. C. ADMINISTRATION

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP).—Governor Lehman today turned toward New York city to lend a hand in helping the Tammany administration through the city's financial crisis.

Without indicating in advance what suggestions he would offer, he accepted an invitation last night to confer with a group of bankers and representatives of the city at his Park avenue home this afternoon.

The administration is seeking to strengthen the city's credit so that $72,000,000 can be borrowed between now and the end of the year to meet obligations.

Although he indicated that the problem was one for the city to solve, Governor Lehman said in a telegram to Samuel Untermyer, the city's fiscal adviser, and Frank E. Polk, representing the bankers' committee, that he was "glad of the opportunity of doing what I can at all times to help the people of the city of New York."

"As Governor of the state," he said, "I am without authority of any character to intervene in any way to alter or control the budget and the finances of the city. Under the constitution and laws of the state, that power is vested exclusively in the officials of the city."

Taking into consideration the possibility that legislation may be necessary to enable the city to obtain the loan, Governor Lehman said he could not promise aid from the lawmakers even though he should decide to call another special session.

WHOLE FAMILY ILL: ATE POISONOUS TOASTS

The Saugerties Post says:

The family of Joseph Pesce, residing at Katsbaan, were taken seriously ill late on Saturday night and Dr. B. W. Gifford, called to attend them, diagnosed the cases as poisonous due to eating toastdolls. Eight members of the Pesce family and a boarder, a man named Romme, were very ill, but are now improving under the treatment of the doctor. The toastdolls were picked by Romme, who thought they were mushrooms, and they were prepared for the evening meal on Saturday.

Dr. Charles D. Carter In Modern Offices

Moved to New Office Building He Has Had Erected on Fair Street—Will Open in New Location on Thursday—Has Practiced Dentistry Here for 29 Years.

After practicing dentistry for the past 29 years in the downtown section of Kingston, Dr. Charles D. Carter today removed from his offices in the First National Bank building to the handsome new office building he has had erected at 257 Fair street, between Maiden Lane and Pearl street, where he plans to resume his practice on Thursday.

Dr. Carter's new quarters are modern and up-to-date. The building of brick construction, one-story high, is 20 by 30 feet. As one enters the building he steps into the reception room. Back of the reception room is the X-ray room and the operating room, and adjoining that is the dark room for developing the pictures. There is also a room fitted up for the patients who may desire to rest a while after having some dental work done.

The building is equipped with a modern ventilating system, and in the cellar is one of the latest gas heating systems which insures the offices being kept warm and comfortable no matter how low the temperature may drop outdoors.

Thomas Kennedy & Son had the masonry contract; the carpenter work was done by Henry Swart; the painting by Czerwinski Brothers; the electrical work by Carl Miller and the plumbing and heating by Van Dusen Brothers.

The electrical fixtures are of the latest type, and the plumbing and heating equipment is of the most modern design.

Dr. Carter came to Kingston to practice dentistry just 29 years ago and for four years was located in an office in the present Freeman building, when he removed to his present quarters on the second floor of the First National Bank building across the street from The Freeman, where he has practiced for the past quarter century.

Dr. Carter during the years he has been a resident of Kingston has been active in the civic, fraternal and religious life of the city.

Salvation Army Has a New Plan

Local Army Post Now in Charge of Captain William Charron—Monday Evening the Army Band Visited West Chestnut Street Section and Gave Concert.

Captain William Charron, who has succeeded Adjutant Wood in charge of the local Salvation Army, has placed in operation a new plan of work, and Monday evening the Army band visited the West Chestnut street section of the city and gave a concert together with prayers and testimony by members of the Army. This plan has been adopted in other cities Captain Charron said and it is planned to visit various sections of Kingston this fall. The next visitation will be held Monday evening, September 25, but just what section of the city will be visited has not been decided upon as yet.

Captain Charron is assisted in his work here by Lieutenant David Houston. Adjutant Wood and his family have been transferred to Newburgh where they have charge of the Army work there.

For years the local Salvation Army has held street corner meetings in the business section but this is the first as far as known where the Army has visited the residential sections to hold concerts and meetings.

Fall Opening Of "Our School"

"Our School" at Stone Ridge resumed session after the summer recess on Monday, September 18, with a total enrollment of 24 pupils. Among the newcomers are Robert Carlton and Loren Snyder of Cottekill, Douglas Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge and Robert Irvin Keyes of Hurley. Miss Margaret Schoonmaker of Stone Ridge and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell of New York comprise the teaching staff, with Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Falls in charge of athletics.

Strikes Still Blot Industrial Picture

(By The Associated Press) Strikes still speckled the industrial picture today.

Among them were: Brockton, Mass., shoe workers. Pennsylvania, coal miners, truckmen. New Jersey, silk workers. Long Branch, Ont., relief workers. New York, underwear, doll and millinery workers. Jersey City, can company workers. Brooklyn, cleaners, dyers. Cape Cod, Mass., cranberry pickers.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, head of the National Labor Board, urged both sides to avoid disputes as much as possible and seek peaceful settlement before the board. In a statement published today he urged "patience, sincerity and efforts to make mutual concessions."

Now that the coal code bears President Roosevelt's signature, the question remained as to what 30,000 striking coal miners in Pennsylvania would do. Some strike leaders expressed belief the government "will see the code put into operation fairly." Others reserved comment.

Tammany Will Test Strength In Primary

By DALE HARRISON.

New York, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Tammany wigwag, a bit teetery from the biting gales of Seabury investigations, stood today in the path of what one of its foes predicted would be a cyclone that would blow it over.

The "cyclone" which Congressman Loring M. Black has prophesied, must strike—if it strikes—in the six-hour period between 3 and 9 p. m. It is during these hours that today's primary election voting takes place.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for mayor is the focal point of interest. New York's 69-year-old mayor, John P. O'Brien, backed by Tammany, is challenged by Congressman Black and Assemblyman Jerome G. Ambro.

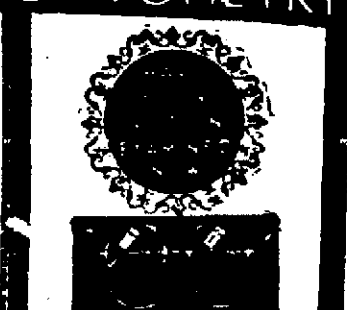

All three voiced confidence of nomination. Tammany leaders said Mayor O'Brien would walk away with the nomination by a two-to-one vote.

Ambro, not so ambitious in his predictions, thought he would win by a 10,000 vote plurality.

Black said: "The weather man has predicted fair weather. If he is right, it will mean a bigger turn-out of voters, and that will mean a cyclone will strike the Tammany tent. The brighter the day, the blacker for O'Brien."

Never touch the furnace—save 20% to 50% on fuel!

Here's what you get with the General Electric Oil Furnace

G-E type Burner... All-electric Controls... Welded Steel Boiler... All-electric Ignition... Built-in Domestic Water Heater... Electric Clock Thermal Control... Rotary Oil Pump... 4-Second Flame... Water Circulator (Hot water system)... High-Temperature Cut-Off (Hot water system)... Pressure Cut-Off (Steam or vapor system)... Low Water Cut-Off (Steam or vapor system)... Domestic Water Temperature Switch... Automatic Vacuum Breaker (Steam or vapor system)... Expansion Relief Door... Fine Silver Contact Points, Quick-make and Quick-break... Self-oiling G-E Motor (Direct Drive)... Outer Jacket of Steel, Glycol Finish, Chromium Plated Trim.

THIS truth is stranger than fiction. You can have a furnace that needs no attention whatsoever, yet saves owners 20% to 50% on fuel bills.

The name of it is the General Electric Oil Furnace. Operated by a Thermal Control that works just like an "electric brain"—turns the heat on in the morning, maintains just the temperature you want all day, and all night. Also keeps your home supplied with hot water automatically, 24 hours a day, summer as well as winter. The clock is electric—needs no winding. There is nothing for you to do except see that the oil tank is kept filled—and the oil company will even do that for you.

This furnace can save you money because it atomizes and burns cheap fuel oil in an entirely new way—by

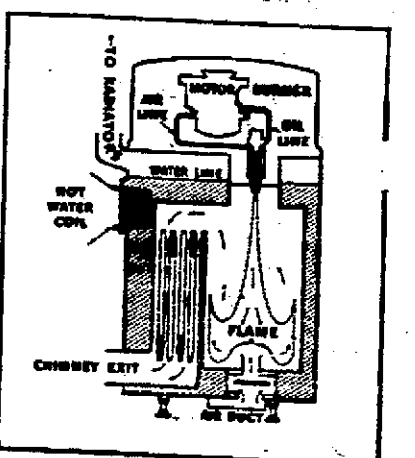

"impact-expansion" which breaks a drop of oil the size of a match head into a hundred million tiny particles.

Then this super-fine oil mist is burned downward in the firebox of the specially designed G-E welded steel boiler, lined with high-grade refractory brick that glows red hot when the furnace is in operation, allows no soot to form, nor smoke nor odor. The oil is burned cleanly, completely.

This furnace comes in two sizes. Alone or in combination they will care for houses of any size and for small apartments, office buildings, factories and stores. May be used for steam, vapor or hot water heating—or as part of the G-E Air Conditioning System to provide either winter or year-round air conditioning in duct-equipped homes.

Installation is made only after a careful survey of your heating needs, and the work is done under direct supervision of factory-trained engineers.

See this unusual kind of automatic heating at our showroom.

Here at last is a new way to burn oil. Note fuel connection at bottom, to keep heat from going up the chimney. Not an oil burner, but a complete oil furnace.

Fall Management of The Pullet Flock

At this season of the year most poultrymen are busy getting the laying quarters ready for pullets which have been out on range all summer and are now beginning to lay. Albert Kurdt, manager of the Farm Bureau, has the following suggestions to make regarding the management of pullets during the fall and winter. Proper care is more important during periods of rising feed prices and low egg prices, than at any other time. According to Mr. Kurdt proper care will do a great deal to prevent trouble in the future.

Pullets should be placed in the laying house before the flock is laying five eggs per day for each hundred birds. This will help prevent laying on the floor and "pick-outs" in the laying house. It will also teach the birds to lay in the nests from the beginning which will mean cleaner eggs.

The following is a complete outline of suggestions for poultrymen to follow in pullet management, from the preparation of the laying house to feeding the flock.

Clean Houses. Thorough cleaning of houses before putting the pullets into laying quarters is just good business to cut down the danger from parasites and disease.

Good Ventilation. It is important to have the laying houses well ventilated. Hot, stuffy, damp or drafty houses will not allow the birds to do their best, and will encourage the development of colds and other diseases.

Ample Floor Space. Give the birds enough floor space or at least three square feet per bird is recommended. Crowding encourages cannibalism, feather picking and other evils.

Clean Protected Nests. Protect the nests so that the laying birds cannot be disturbed by other birds. Allow 15 nests for each 100 birds. Use plenty of shavings, oat hulls or other equally satisfactory nest litter to keep the eggs as clean as possible.

Ample Floor Litter. Deep clean straw litter will tend to keep the birds more active while they are becoming adjusted to the change from open range to closely confined quarters.

Lights. Use lights in morning or evening or both to give a 13 or 14 hour day. This is important to give the birds time to eat sufficient feed for heavy production. Lights should be reflected more on the feed hoppers and floor than on the roosts.

Feeding. Keep fresh clean mash before the birds. Scratch grains may be successfully fed by hand in the litter but many poultrymen prefer to hopper feed both grain and mash.

Allow 25 feet of mash hopper feeding space for each 100 birds. The amount of feed required will vary with size of birds and egg production but 100 Leghorn pullets of good size will usually require 24 to 25 pounds of total feed daily to maintain 50 per cent egg production. Unless the birds eat enough feed, egg production will drop. A midseason slump and molt, particularly with early hatched pullets, can usually be avoided by careful attention to feed consumed and by feeding moist mash once daily, if necessary, to keep up total food consumption.

Plenty of water. Laying birds need plenty of fresh, clean water. One hundred birds will require four to five gallons per day.

Shells and grit. Some minerals are supplied in the mash but additional oyster shells or limestone grit or both should be supplied to meet egg shell requirements. A hen will consume about three pounds of this material per year.

health-destroyers to counteract the accomplishment of the great public health work of recent years. That time is about up now. Prompt and thorough action is needed to stop the decline in health before too much permanent damage is done.

When William S. Kenyon, judge and former United States Senator, died recently, it was pointed out that he had long been a liberal, though not an extremist. Years ago he advocated farm relief, fair play for unions in industrial controversies and the abolition of child labor. But, as an editorial writer expressed it, "the spirit of the times was against Kenyon." In that statement lies the explanation of the delay of many reforms which are advocated by intelligent persons for years before they succeed. The reformer, as a rule, has to wait for the spirit of the times to catch up with him, to see the need and to develop the heart and will to meet it. He has the vision. He points the way to fulfillment, but he cannot put it over until the time is ripe for it.

Prof. Albert Einstein is not quite sure his head is worth the 20,000 marks which is said to be the Nazi price set upon it. But he and Mrs. Einstein were boarding a friend's yacht, destination unrevealed, when last heard from. Mrs. Einstein may think it's worth more to her on than off the shoulders of the great scientist. The world will agree with her.

WHY MORE ARE NOW CURED

Although the number of mental cases is increasing and number more than half the total of patients in all hospitals, nevertheless the new methods in use to restore mental balance may more than keep up with this increasing number.

As you know the number now being restored to health is about six of every ten entering these mental institutions.

In former days a patient entered with a history of being sullen and quiet, or noisy and quarrelsome, and he was treated with suspicion by the head physician right down to the lowest employe about the institution.

He was closely watched and was given little freedom. His food and rest were supervised but that was about all.

What do we find now?
 Dr. W. C. Menninger, in the Journal of American Medical Association, states that a patient enters a mental hospital, not with symptoms but with problems.

What can be done for him?
 It is not sufficient that he be made physically comfortable; rest and freedom from responsibility alone will not satisfy his psychological or mental needs. His problems must be studied intensively. These problems must be interpreted or unraveled and some method of solving them be attempted.

Solving the problem can be worked out in two ways: First, by making his surroundings pleasant or more agreeable than what he has had at home or elsewhere; and second, by a series of relationships scientifically arranged during his stay in the institution.

From the moment a patient enters the hospital an attempt should be made to provide him with surroundings suited to his needs and wishes—to adapt the institution to him rather than adapt him to the institution.

Scientifically controlled "friendship" is regarded as the chief factor in the process of recovery. Thus actors, nurses, orderlies, everybody around the institution make it a point to be friendly and do everything possible to make the patient understand that they are anxious to see him get well.

You can readily see how different this is from the former methods where the patient was given food, rest, and a little exercise daily, as nothing more was thought necessary.

Outrageous Fortune

Chapter Two THE MEETING

THE day nurse wasn't going to be hurried. North country people take their own way and their own time.

"Well, he was found on a ledge on that cliff just to the left of the gap over there. That's where the Alice Arden broke up. She was driven in with the axe, and there the current got her and she smashed on the rocks. You must have read about it. It's a very bad bit of coast because of the quicksands."

"The lifeboat people picked up a few of the passengers, but this man wasn't found for getting on thirty-six hours. The gale went down very suddenly, and then there was a fog, one of the worst fogs I've ever seen. You couldn't see your hand before your face on the cliffs, and it wasn't till it lifted that they found him. He must have crawled up on the ledge and then lost consciousness."

"Dr. Sutherland thinks he's had a knock on the head. When he came round he didn't seem to know who he was or where he came from."

"Then I don't see—"

The day nurse just went on as if there had not been any interruption.

"But when he is asleep he keeps muttering, and one of the things he keeps saying is that name. The Jimmy is plain enough. That is to say, Matron says it is Jim—and she made out the message that was broadcast—but when it came to the surname, Dr. Sutherland said it was Randall, and I thought Riddell—but Matron said Riddell, so she put in all the three. Anyway his lines marked J. R."

MRS. RIDDELL was folding the piece of paper with the broadcast message on it. She stopped for a moment, pinching the edge of the paper hard. Then all at once she asked what some women would have asked before.

"Is he bad?"

The day nurse hesitated.

"He's not ill," she said. "It's just that he doesn't remember anything."

Nesta folded up the paper with the radio message on it. She folded it quite small. Then she said,

"He hadn't any letters or papers on him, I suppose?"

"A note-case with some money in it—pound notes—seven or eight, I think."

"Nothing else?"

The day nurse hesitated. Then after a moment she asked in her slow voice,

"Do you know anyone called Caroline?"

"I might," said Nesta Riddell. "Why?"

The name went round in her mind. The only Caroline she knew was old Caroline Russell. Had she written? What had she written?

"Why?" she said sharply.

The nurse hesitated again. She didn't want to make trouble between husband and wife. Then she must have crawled up on the ledge and then lost consciousness."

Health Is half of success

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation.
It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the rim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies
"bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red and green package.

"I tried the soap

"I wanted a clearer, lovelier complexion," says Miss Marian Ayers of Philadelphia. "So I tried the soap
the screen stars use. Lux Toilet Soap does work wonders! At least the boys tell me a skin like mine ought to knock down a contract any day!"

Like Miss Ayers, thousands of women all over the country are following the screen stars' way to complexion beauty. They find Lux Toilet Soap is such a wonderful aid to loveliness!

Now scientists explain WHY. This fragrant, white soap, they say, in addition to its complete freedom from harshness, its ready solubility, contains precious elements Nature puts in skin itself to keep it youthful.

Anita Page, one of 10
lovely Hollywood stars,

care. Why don't you try
it for clearer,

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS—SOUNDS

By HENRY GROSS

HOLLYWOOD—Will Rogers will be back playing an accordion in his new picture, "Blotch," but he won't actually be playing it.

And therein lay the bone of contention in an argument that kept a film company waiting some fifteen or twenty minutes while Will and his director, James Cruze, thrashed
it out.

Will's point was that everybody knew Will Rogers can't play an accordion, and he doesn't want to fool anybody into believing he can.

Cruze argued and pleaded, but Will said no. So out to the back lot, on the "New England Street" set was temporarily doubling for a Missouri town, came a story department executive to bolster the cause of Cruze. Will "played" the accordeo.

He Doesn't Like Fakes

"I don't like to put tubes in my picture," Rogers commented later.
"I don't believe in fakes." People but they say this accordeo comes into the story later and they got to have it. Now it's only been a vision—I can handle a little. Well, enough to put by."

In this picture with Will, incidentally, is Bebe Rebozo, diminutive girl who came to Hollywood from Will's home town, Claremore.

Ohio, two or three years ago, and is only now hitting her stride after several poor starts. Previous contracts at Fox and R-K-O brought her minor roles or none at all, but when she was called for the latest Rogers film she won a new Fox contract. After this one she will appear in Warner Rastor in "Old There-day."

No, she didn't know Will back in the old home town.

'Minnie' An Old Girl

That popular figure of cacophonous melody, "Minnie the Mocker," is really quite an old timer. Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler, who presented her for up-to-date orchestra-merely revived and modernized her, say, a character chanted about in New York's Chinatown the past twenty-five years.

The song-writing pair are here to compose for "Let's Fall in Love," a musical saga of the movie extra.

Harry Cohn, Columbia executive, returned from Europe without signing any foreign stars, although there are a few, he admitted, the studio would like to get.

"You talk to them about Hollywood," he says, "and their eyes get big."

Then they send their agents to talk to you—and the figures get
big!"

"I'll be needing a job," she said.
And she got it. So she was back

Answered Last Fall Call.

Shokan, Sept. 13.—September 17,
1913, the Olive Civil War veterans attended the celebration of the 51st anniversary of the battle of Antietam by survivors of the 26th Regiment, or Ulster Guards, were as follows:
Ara Bishop of Broadhead, Hugh Donohue of Krumville and Joseph Shefflighter of Shokan. Old soldiers who had answered their last roll call previous to the reunion 20 years ago were Solomon Winne of Olive and Jonathan DuBois. Mr. Bishop, who was the father of LeGrand Bishop, well known Department of Water Supply foreman, served four years as a member of Co. D, being discharged with the rank of sergeant.
He was wounded and taken prisoner at Gettysburg. Mr. Donohue was prominent in church and Sunday school activities during his lifetime.

Mr. Shefflighter, a farmer residing in the old stone house on the hill road to Boiceville, is survived by members of the family who now make their home in Kingston.

Prairie Deer Nice

Prairie deer mice, like other mice,
are almost wholly nocturnal in habit.
Possibly they dislike the heat, but by remaining hidden in the daytime, they also escape being eaten by gulls and hawks. The nests are made of dry stems and roots of rushes and grasses, lined with shredded down, which makes a wonderfully soft and warm nest for tender babies.

Tomato Recipes

Are you looking for a new way to serve tomatoes? Try this one:

STUFFED TOMATOES

Remove a thin slice from the stem end of the tomatoes, scrape out the seed and pulp, sprinkle the inside with pepper and salt, and let them stand ten minutes. To the pulp add an equal quantity of chopped mushrooms and bread crumbs, seasoned with salt, pepper, butter and a few drops of onion juice. Fill the tomatoes with this mixture. Put a piece of butter on the top of each and place on a roasting pan. Bake about 45 minutes.

This is one of a series of tomato recipes prepared for this paper by the Consumers Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Watch for others.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 19.—Gains of uncertainty hampered through the security markets today and the rustling of their mysterious garments brought shivers to the more timid traders.

There was actually little to account for the erratic movements of stocks. The share market was only moderately irregular during the first hour, but there was a sharp and rather weird break in the second which flooded the list with losses of 1 to 3 or more points. For half an hour the selling was fast. Then short covering steadied the leaders and a moderate rally retrieved some of the more severe declines. The activity, however, dwindled noticeably on the recovery. The sudden relapse apparently found no answer in brokerage circles. Grains and cotton were barely steady. The dollar, while a bit easier, displayed some resistance in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were again heavy.

"Switching" and "hedging" were two words frequently heard in the discussions of market observers. Both were supposed to account to a large extent for the spasmodic declines in various stock groups. Many investors and traders were said to be basing their operations on the assumption that currency inflation is of issues that may not benefit and into ones that stand a chance of substantial improvements.

In line with the efforts to anticipate further depreciation of the dollar, bankers call attention to the activity of some foreign gold bonds during the past several weeks. Holders expect to see values of their maturities rise in proportion to the decline in the gold value of the dollar. Some are selling around $1.475 per $1,000 par value bond.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Sept. 19.—Harvey Silkworth, a former resident of Shokan, is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Nelson Bell, and family. Mr. Silkworth has been employed near Catskill during the past summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bradley of Boston, Mass., were the guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmsdorf of the village center. Mr. Bradley spent some time last summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burtis Wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bloom of Newburgh, who formerly resided in Shokan, attended the Century of Progress in Chicago last week.

Last Thursday two timbers, each 64 feet long and 16x20 inches square at the ends, passed through here on the way to Mt. Tremper. The timbers, of western fir, were being hauled from Poughkeepsie to the neighboring township where they are to be used in bridge construction work. Those who saw these huge sticks say that nothing quite so large in that line has been seen in this section, except possibly during water works days.

A number of Shokan and Ashokan residents attended the funeral of Oscar Bell, Department of Water Supply employee, at the family residence at Brown Station Sunday afternoon. Mr. Bell was one of the oldest members of the reservoir force in point of service, having for some time past been attached to Foreman Spencer Jones' crew, handling the chlorine gas at the screen chamber. He was a brother of Assessor Nelson Bell of this place, and the father of Mrs. Eltinge Gray of Ashokan.

Homer Markle, tax collector of School District No. 3, has posted notices relative to the payment of school taxes which are due now and will be received at the one per cent rate until October 14, after which time the five per cent fee will be in effect. The fee for payment of school taxes expires on November 14.

Miss Anita Flagg has returned to her home in Brooklyn after spending several weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmsdorf.

September 16, 1913, the funeral took place at the family residence, of Jonathan Van Winchell, aged 84 years, and known as Olive's grand old man. Mr. Winchell was supervisor of the town of Olive in 1875 and had served as assessor and in other offices. He was a great-grandson of Lemuel Winchell, the first storekeeper in what is now the reservoir section, and a grandson of Elder Van Velsdonk, first pastor of the Olive Baptist Church. The Winchell homestead at the foot of Tice Tenick Mountain is now occupied by Mrs. L. M. Chase as a summer residence.

Emil Brunel, creator of the Indian monuments at Boiceville, has returned to New York city for a time after spending the summer at Chateaufort along the north boulevard.

Harrison Gridley of Shady was a caller in the hub of the reservoir country Saturday. Mr. Gridley is the popular and efficient principal of the Ashokan school in district No. 4, which this fall has about 40 pupils enrolled.

Edward Leyder began cutting his bumper crop of field corn on Wednesday. Both dent and flint varieties are well cared out and the stalks are immense—as large as a man's wrist. In fact, it is feared that as a result of the four days' rain "Ed" will have to fell the remainder of his crop with an axe.

Daniel Joyce, one of Kingston's bustling young business men, was in Shokan Saturday morning.

Illustrative of the varied commodities which pass through Shokan over state highways 28 and 213, was a trailer of charcoal en route from Rochester to Rosendale last Friday. The load, one of the largest both as to bulk and weight ever seen here, was carried in bags on the trailer which was attached to a light Ford truck. The driver, with his 7 1/2-ton cargo, made the trip from the western New York city in about six hours.

Marie Caslova, who has been spending a vacation here, is a concert violinist of international reputation. Born in Missouri, Miss Caslova gave her first public recital at the age of nine, played with the St. Louis Symphony at the age of 12 as a soloist, after which she went to Europe and studied in Czechoslovakia and Berlin. Her first appearance in New York city was with the New York Symphony at Carnegie Hall, since which time she has appeared in many recitals in all of the large cities of this country as well as in Berlin, Dresden and many other European musical centers. She is considered one of the most talented and successful teachers of the violin in New York city.

Mrs. R. B. Peck and son, Robert, Jr., are still rusticated at the Peck summer home on the cross mountain road. "Bobby's" school in New York city does not begin until September 23. Thomas, elder son of the Pecks, is now rounding out his first year as a reporter on the Herald Tribune, of which paper his father is a staff writer.

Miss Maude Constable is again at her home in the village after having spent the summer months at Mt. Pleasant.

Fell From Truck, Is Badly Injured

A. A. McKelvey of 146 Duane street is in the Kingston Hospital with a fractured skull and other injuries sustained about 10:45 o'clock this morning when he fell from the rear end of a fruit truck as it was turning from Broadway into Pearl street.

The truck was owned by W. J. Kenney of Rifton and Mr. McKelvey is employed by him. From what the police learned McKelvey was standing on the back of the truck and as it turned he lost his balance and fell to the pavement and a barrel of potatoes on the truck fell on top of him.

Mr. Kenney removed the injured man to the hospital.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—One of the most interesting phases of Cuba's "second revolution" is the plight in which it finds itself.

Well, American ambassador to the island, finds himself.

The name of the American ambassador to the island, finds himself. The name of the American ambassador to the island, finds himself. The name of the American ambassador to the island, finds himself.

Admittedly, he had relieved the Roosevelt administration of what promised to be an embarrassing incident. The success or failure of the President's announced "good neighbor" policy with the countries to the south seemed to some observers to hang precariously in the balance.

But the tall, handsome diplomat came through. His feat was hailed as a triumph in diplomacy by everyone from Mr. Roosevelt on down.

The Man Of The Hour
WELLES was the man of the hour—

Arrangements were made for his return to the United States. He was to take up again his duties as assistant secretary of state, which he left to straighten out the political situation in Havana, and J. Edgar Hoover was to succeed him.

The exchange was to be a mere matter of days.

And then came the bold, swift and decisive coup d'etat from the revolutionary junta. The provisional government was swept aside. The armed forces of American intervention, so disastrous to the Roosevelt administration, again reared its head. The carefully nurtured plans of Mr. Roosevelt for improvement in our relations with the Pan-American countries were jeopardized.

The situation was all the more acute because the Pan-American conference at Montevideo is scheduled for December. New treaties of amity and commerce between the United States and Latin-America are to be discussed at this conference. Much depends on getting the Cuban wrangle calmed by that time.

Caught Unawares
A MESSADOR WELLES has his work cut out for him. Evidently, the "second revolution" caught him as well as his colleagues unawares. All his skill as a diplomat will be required to face the new turn of events in Havana.

Had the coup d'etat been delayed only a little longer he would have been, in all probability, back in Washington and Caffery would be in Havana. His success in the period of the first revolution would have stood undimmed and untroubled by any difficulties which may beset it now.

Sundown Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The lightning flashed, the thunder roared, and the rain came down in torrents.

"Will have to rush for home," Willy Nilly shouted, and the Bears, the Ducks, the Dog, the Rooster, and the Pig, hurried along. All were soaked wet when they reached the house, except the Ducks.

"You're heard the expression 'Just like water off a duck's back'?" quacked Mr. Quacko. "You see now how true it is. When we're caught in the rain we're at home."

But this rain was so heavy and came down with such force that even the Ducks soon became grateful for shelter. The wind blew so hard that it seemed as though the trees could not stand up against it. They swayed and their branches bent and some of the weaker, smaller ones fell to the ground.

"Where's Christopher Columbus Cow?" cried Willy Nilly. "He went up to his nest for a rest. The branches are falling so from all the trees that I'm afraid his nest will fall down and he'll fall with it. This is like a tornado and a cloudburst all in one."

He rushed to the window, but the rain was coming down so hard that he could not see through it. Rip, Top Notch, Honey Bear, Jelly Bear, and the Ducks all tried, too, to see out of the window.

"Oh, that there should be a storm such as this and have one of our own out in it. I've got to get Christopher," Willy Nilly cried in alarm. He opened the door and dashed out into the storm.

Crowd's Lobsters
When Alexander Selkirk, the sailor on whose experiences Daniel Defoe based "Robinson Crusoe," was put ashore on Juan Fernandez, this Pacific island was so isolated that four years passed before he was taken off. Today five lobsters from Juan Fernandez are rushed 365 miles by boat to Chile, lifted by plane over the Andes and flown to Buenos Ayres, where they grace dinner tables at the nominal cost of $2 a pound.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball prosperity, represented by the National and American League pennants, was just around the corner today for the New York Giants and Washington Senators, rivals in a dramatic world series just nine years ago.

All the Giants needed to clinch the National League flag for the first time since 1924 was one victory for themselves or a defeat for their only rival, Pittsburgh. Washington, seeking the American League bunting for the first time since its two-year reign in 1924-25, was just half as well off. The Senators needed two victories, two New York Yankee defeats or a combination of one triumph and one Yankee reverse.

It was possible neither flag would be clinched today but the Giants, slated to play their final game at St. Louis while the Pirates tangled with the Phillies in a double-header, expected to end the National League race by tonight.

They let just such an opportunity slip through their fingers yesterday but the 4-3 decision they dropped to the St. Louis Cardinals worried them less than the narrow escape "Fat Fred" Fitzsimmons had from serious injury.

The veteran right hander held a 2-1 lead with two men out in the second inning when a line drive from Bob O'Farrell's bat cracked him on the neck. Fitz went down in the dirt and lay gasping as his teammates rushed to his aid. Soon he staggered to his feet and was led to the club house where an examination revealed he had suffered no serious hurt.

Herman Bell then took up the pitching burden and the Giants gave him a two-run lead in the fourth on Charley Draxler's double, a sacrifice and Blandy Ryan's single. Herman couldn't stand prosperity and retired in some disorder in the fifth after O'Farrell and Pepper Martin had singled. That brought Carl Hubbell to the mound and for once the slender southpaw was not equal to the occasion. George Watkins' double drove O'Farrell across the plate and in the next inning O'Farrell's third straight single, a walk and another safety by Martin tied the score. The Cardinals then won the game in the eighth on Leo Durocher's triple and a single by Tex Carleton, who gave the Giants only two hits in the last five innings.

Despite this defeat, the Giants moved closer to the pennant for Pittsburgh got no better than an even break in a twin bill with the Phils. Paul Waner's homer in the eighth gave the Corsairs the first game, 2-1, but Ed Holley came back with a four-hit shutout in the nightcap and the Phillies won, 6-0. The Boston Braves pounded out 14 hits to wallop the Cincinnati Reds, 8-2, while Brooklyn beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-4.

Following the Giants' lead, Washington also picked up ground although beaten. They bowed to the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, but moved one game closer to the flag when the Yankees split a double-header with the Chicago White Sox.

Sam Gray, who some weeks ago confessed to a sore arm and thus nullified a transaction by which he was to wear a Washington uniform, and thus would have been eligible for a slice of world series money, held the Senators well in hand all the way although touched for ten hits. Bob Burke pitched well for seven innings but a double by Bruce Campbell, a walk to Oscar Melillo and a triple by Ted Gullie gave the Browns two runs and the game in the eighth.

Johnny Allen held the White Sox to two hits as the Yankees won the first game, 6-1, but the pale horse came back to take the nightcap, 4-3, behind the steady pitching of the Dallas recruit, Leslie Tietje. Lou Gehrig hit a homer in each game to bring his season total to 29. Oral Hildebrand also pitched two-hit ball as Cleveland blanked the Boston Red Sox, 9-0. Homers by Cramer, Johnson and Higgins helped the Philadelphia Athletics nose out Detroit, 9-5.

Newark—Teddy Harous, 188%. Pittsburgh, outpointed Vince Dundee, 153, Belleville, N. J., (10).

Erie, Pa.—Eduardo Duany, 138, outpointed Tony Herrera, 133, Chicago, (10).

in the Series

MEL OTT

This is the third of a series of personality sketches on individual stars of the New York Giants and Washington Senators, world series rivals.

New York (P)—Melvin Ott, slugging right fielder of the Giants, is the youngest veteran in the major leagues. At 24 he is a seasoned campaigner, winding up his ninth year in the big show.

Ott, then a schoolboy catcher at Gretna, La., was only 16 when a friend of John McGraw saw him slugging baseballs all over the Louisiana landscape. He bought Mel a ticket for New York and wired McGraw the lad was on his way.

From the moment he walked into the Polo Grounds, Ott has never called another baseball park home. He spent that season, 1925, just sitting on the bench and looking around. The next year he played 35 games in the outfield; the next 82. At the ripe old age of 19 he became a regular, and he's been right there ever since.

Ott is one of baseball's most consistent and timely hitters. His average never has fallen below .309. In 1930 he slugged at a .345 clip and was runner-up for National League homerun honors. For the last two seasons he has been second only to Chuck Klein of the Phillies in runs batted in, though many league rivals had higher batting averages.

Washington pitchers will find him a tough man to handle in the world series clashes, and the first baseman who takes liberties with Ott's throwing arm will think he has been cut down by rifle fire.

King Levinsky Outpoints Sharkey

Ex-Champ Eliminated as Heavyweight Threat—Will Meet Loughran on September 27.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—King Levinsky, Chicago west side battler, today had his eye on Primo Carnera's world heavyweight boxing title following his defeat of Jack Sharkey, former champion, in a rough and tumble battle at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago Stadium, much impressed by Levinsky's marvelous showing against Sharkey last night, said he would open negotiations with the Carnera management at once. The bout, if arranged, will take place in the Chicago Stadium this fall. Carnera has met and defeated Levinsky twice.

The defeat practically eliminated the ex-gob as a heavyweight threat, although he has another bout booked with Tommy Loughran at Philadelphia on September 27. However, his share of the receipts in both fights is $25,000.

Jack Floored in First.

Sharkey entered the ring a favorite, but the money of his backers went glimmering in the first round. Levinsky, a tough kid from the Bronx, floored Jack with a hard right and followed with another that floored the ex-champion for a seven count. Later in his dressing room Sharkey admitted that he never recovered from that first blow. King had Sharkey staggering in the second round when he again scored with rights.

When the bell ended the third round the Boston fighter was so dazed from the constant hammering of Levinsky's fists that he walked to a neutral corner and had to be helped to his seat.

Jack Won Seventh

Sharkey was unable to use any boxing science against the bull-like charging Levinsky and hit low in the fifth round. The seventh was the only round that Jack won. He appeared to have recovered somewhat and peppered the King's head with his left and shot hooks to the body. King came near scoring a knockout in the next round with his wild swings and won the last two by wide margins.

A smarter boxer would have knocked Sharkey out. King failed to take advantage of the opportunities when Jack staggered around the ring in a daze.

A Financial Success
Sharkey weighed 201 and Levinsky scaled 4½ pounds more. Promoter Sammy Wolf announced the show as a financial success. The attendance was 20,317 and the gross receipts $52,996.46. Sharkey received $25,000 and Levinsky about $8,600.

A home run was made with one man on base by the Zena pitcher. This being the first try for the Zena team it was a successful and exciting game. Batteries for Highwoods were Woyner and Shader pitchers and Snyder catcher. For Zena H. Hofmeyer pitcher and E. Hung catcher. Another game is scheduled between these teams on October 1 at 2 o'clock at the same field.

In 1850 she set up in London a printing establishment for women and shortly thereafter was appointed printer and publisher in ordinary to the queen.

SPORT SLANTS By ALAN J. COULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Despite his own public statement of confidence in the future of Babe Ruth, Inc., I do not think even the celebrated Bambino thinks he has a great deal of active, day-in-and-out baseball left in his system.

It would be fantastic to figure the great slugger's future anywhere but behind now, nearing his 40th milestone and closing out his 20th season in the big show, wherein he has been one of the great stars of all time.

Yet a number of the boys have shown a deplorable tendency to count "ten" over the Babe's portly form before even the 1933 curtain drops. Having been wrong so many times in the past, when they tried to stamp "Bis" on Ruth's career for various and sundry reasons, they seem to feel that they can justify themselves by rubbing it in. Why isn't it just as fair and sensible to give the old fellow the benefit of any lingering doubt, after all these glamorous years? While pointing out the decline of his prowess, which has undoubtedly been rapid during the latter half of this season, may not sympathize with Ruth's ambition to stick as long as he can?

Who knows, another spring-time and a fresh start might send the Babe off on a characteristic comeback in 1934, whether or not it lasted for the duration of the next major league campaign.

Won't See His Like

There has never been another Cobb, another Mathewson and there may never be another Ruth.

These individualists had something that the record books will never show—rare color, extraordinary holds on popular imagination and the ability to rise to their greatest heights under pressure.

In each of these respects Ruth must be ranked at the top. There is no comparison between the Babe and any other ball-player in history, as a "gate" attraction. He revived popular interest a dozen years ago and fanned it to a flame during the boom days with one magnificent gesture after another with his big war club.

To the club owners he meant profits such as they seldom even dreamed of before. To the youth of the land he stood for the ultimate in sporting achievement. In short, he was and still is idolized as no other figure in American athletics has ever been.

For this and other reasons, among them his own love for baseball at any cost, Ruth can and should be counted in the baseball picture somewhere for 1934.

Managerial Germ
Whether or not it develops next spring that Ruth no longer can hold a place in the regular lineup, it is certain he will never play minor league baseball.

It's one of the few things the big fellow has made up his mind about. In the first place, he doesn't have to worry about his financial future. He has enough put away now to acquire a sizable interest in some major league club, if he wanted it, and there is also the prospect of his becoming a manager.

I feel reasonably sure the managerial germ has gained a hold on the Babe's thoughts, but he won't admit it now.

Strengthening Bridge Foundations.
Shokan, Sept. 19.—Falling in their efforts to stop the leakage in the coffer dam which was built of sandbags around one of the abutments of the Boiceville railroad bridge. New York Central workmen employed on the job, made a 1-1-1 mixture of sand, cement and gravel, bagged it and sunk the whole 342 bags around the base of the stone-work. The job was finished just in time to protect the abutment against possible damage by the high water of the Esopus Creek during the past few days. Masons from Newburgh are reported to have been brought here by the Central for the work of strengthening the bridge foundations which it was feared had been weakened by the big freshet in August.

VARIED ACTIVITIES

AT HURLEY SCHOOL

Hurley, Sept. 15.—Hurley School opened its doors for the school sessions of 1933-34 with an enrollment of 70 pupils.

The quaintly attractive old building had received a fresh coat of paint, new walks had been laid, new blackboards put in upstairs and altogether everything looked very fresh and inviting.

During the first two weeks of school the pupils have displayed their usual spirit of cooperation and willingness to make this the best year yet at Old Hurley school.

Canfield Explains
Proposed Changes

the average relative number of persons who survive or who have died at the end of each year life. These tables are based upon a given large number of persons alive at one age from which it can be computed what number are likely to survive a given number of years. Also the possibility of police and fire officers being killed or seriously injured while in the discharge of duty, can be estimated upon a mathematical relation. Even with all this information and data, I cannot see how these proposed amendments will require one dollar additional to be added to the tax budget.

It must not be forgotten that a pension, if it serves all purposes of a pension, should be a stated allowance or regular payment, made to one retired from public service on account of age, disability or other cause, or to dependents of those killed in such service. Also, it should not be overlooked, that because of the active and alert physical and mental requirements of policemen and firemen, their usefulness for active duty after 25 to 30 years of service, except in unusual cases, is questionable and certainly very much impaired. As a matter of municipal efficiency and economy, it is recognized as advisable to retire such officers. However, with the pension funds of the amounts above stated, no taxpayer need worry about any increased tax burden from such funds.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD.
